

"Come & Visit
Bungay in Suffolk"

www.lovebungay.co.uk

Nestling on the banks of the meandering River Waveney, Bungay is a quintessentially East Anglian market town, surrounded by breathtaking Suffolk countryside. Despite the town's small size, it is bursting with history and attractions, which is why it's fast becoming one of Suffolk's best-loved tourist destinations.

Bungay is home to the legend of Black Shuck, a ghostly hound said to have terrorised congregations during church services in the 16th century. The spectral hound is now the town's unofficial mascot, with a variety of tours and exhibits devoted to his spine-chilling history.

The heart of the town is the picturesque Buttercross, with its antique bandstand and traditional architecture housing a variety of boutique shops, as well as fantastic local pubs serving home-cooked food and award-winning local ales.

This love of the finer things in life is part of what makes Bungay a growing tourist destination, perfect for romantic getaways and family holidays.

Bungay also makes a great base for exploring the rest of East Anglia, with the picturesque beaches of Lowestoft, the glitz and excitement of Great Yarmouth and the peace and tranquillity of the Norfolk Broads all within easy reach.
